Develop Surface Water Supplies for Cities

Although your editor would have preferred a pipeline tapping the inexhaustible supply of Millwood Reservoir and Little River the City of Hope indicated in yesterday's edition it is planning to utilize water from the Terre Rouge Creek watershed.

That's an acceptable alternative, at least for the near future. The Terre Rouge project is on the small side compared to a 'Millwood pipe line, but infinitely better than last year's well-drilling spree.

It seems to me all cities should be prohibited from drilling wells for municipal water. You've read the argument in this column many times, but it will bear repeating: Wells are the only source of water for farmers, and when a big user like a city starts drilling the water table drops.

It may not be apparent at the moment, for we are in a wet cycle. That is, the federal weather experts calculate the nation goes through alternating cycles of wet and dry eras ranging from 30 to 40 years each. In the dry era of the 1930s some farmers reported 200-foot wells went dry and either had to be deepened or supplemented by new wells.

The individual has limited financial ability to find water, but the cities have bonding and taxing powers that enable them to construct surface water facilities—which is what they ought to do, rather than poach on the individual's limited deep-well supply.

Eventually I think Hope will get around to the Millwood pipe line project. But I concede the pipe line was imagined as a joint venture of several cities. Other towns refusing to go along made it look like too costly a deal for Hope alone. Developing a local watershed may be the right alternative. But I still have more confidence in a river and a big reservoir when another dry cycle comes around.

Says Blackbirds Could be Worse

Thurman W. Booth, Jr. of the Division of Wildlife Services, who is in charge of trying to move the blackbirds roosting in the southeast corner of the city, says that there is always a possibility that a roost will move into an even less desirable place.

He says that residents in other parts of the city should be on the lookout for birds attempting to come into their area to roost. When they are seeking a new location, he says, almost any disturbance will cause them to move on since they are already disturbed and are looking for a quiet safe place. He suggested clapping the hands, rattling pans or perhaps a shotgun will move them on.

Arkansas Gets More Rural Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., said Thursday the White House had released $109 million in Rural Electrification Administration loan funds.

A spokesman said the move would have a significant effect on Arkansas. Hammerschmidt said that in the present fiscal year, two loans totaling $1.4 million have been approved for Arkansas and five additional loan applications for $6.8 are pending.

Charged With Opening Grave

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—Sheriff Jerry McMahan of Ouachita County said Thursday two Camden men have been charged with illegally opening a grave at the Red Hill Cemetery four miles east of Chidister.

The two were identified by McMahan as James Wilabay, 26, and James E. Stewart, 23. The sheriff said the opened grave was discovered Wednesday afternoon.

Touchy Okinawa Issue Settled

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan have agreed to announce a final settlement today of the touchy Okinawa issue.

American officials were optimistic the Japanese would lower their trade barriers.

As the conclusion of a two-day Nixon-Sato summit conference approached, Secretary of State William P. Rogers told reporters the two leaders would definitely fix a date for the transfer of Okinawa from the United States to Japan.

A World War II battlefield and a political bone of contention since then, Okinawa has been administered by the United States since 1944. Sato has said the postwar era will not end until the populous island is returned to Japan.

The Nixon-Sato talks and separate cabinet-level conferences seemed headed for a trade-off with the United States yielding on political questions and Japan giving ground in the economic realm.

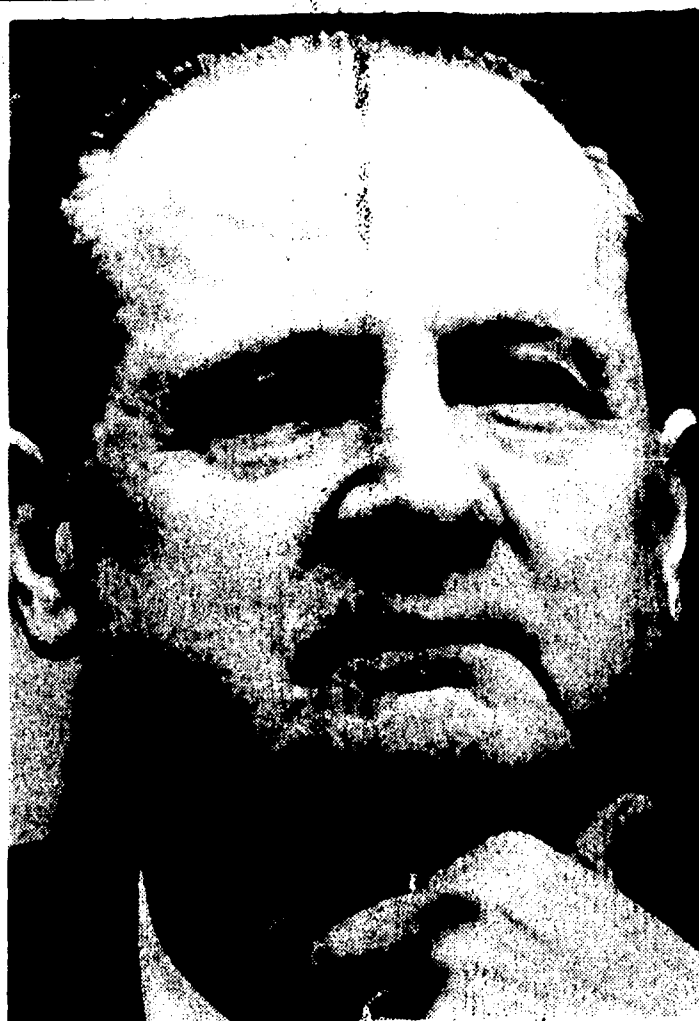

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, a participant, told newsmen Thursday he expected substantive summit agreements in the trade sphere. The United States, which runs a $3 billion annual trade deficit with Japan, its second largest customer, has long complained that Japan's trade barriers in the form of tariffs and quotas are much too high.

Connally emphasized that any economic concessions by Japan would not be matched in any way by the United States. He said U.S. concessions would be ridiculous in view of the trade gap.

Rogers, however, indicated the United States would reciprocate in the political area. Apart from an Okinawa agreement, he said Nixon would have no objection to installation of a Washington-Tokyo "hot line."

The question of communications between the capitals became an issue after Nixon last summer startled Sato by announcing plans for his China trip and by temporarily imposing a 10 per cent surcharge on imports.

India Establishes Full Relations With Hanoi

By MYRON BELKIND
Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI (AP) — India established full diplomatic relations with North Vietnam today, abandoning its official policy of treating Hanoi and Saigon as equals.

This means that India will have an embassy in Hanoi and only a consulate general, headed by a lower rank official, in Saigon.

India has resisted this move in the past, despite demands from leftist political parties and Communist nations, saying it would jeopardize its status as chairman of the International Control Commission which is charged with supervising the 1954 cease-fire in Vietnam.

Reaction from South Vietnam was prompt. Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam told newsmen in Saigon that India's establishment of full diplomatic ties with Hanoi is harmful to its position as a neutral and as chairman of the ICC.

He said he plans to file a protest with New Delhi.

The Indian decision could have vast repercussions on the future of the ICC, whose other members are Canada and Poland.

In the past, India would generally abstain on controversial votes, with Canada and Poland opposing each other. Now India conceivably might adopt a stand closer to Poland.

The new diplomatic relations became effective at once, according to a brief Indian Foreign Ministry statement.

The Indian government radio, in a brief commentary made simultaneously with the announcement noted that India had been chairman of the ICC, but added: "The continuing strife in Indochina, especially in Vietnam, has been a cause of great anxiety to India in recent years."

"Recently, a number of countries have raised their relations with North Vietnam to the embassy level. They include Sweden and Switzerland."

Most Western nations had felt that India was biased, or at least sympathetic, toward North Vietnam.

India has often criticized U.S. policies toward Vietnam and only last week expressed its concern at the resumption of bombing of North Vietnam.

India also has been under pressure from the Communist bloc to raise its relations from the consulate general to the embassy level with North Korea and East Germany. There has been no indication whether any similar action was contemplated toward these two countries.

Letters Lead Police to Bombs in Banks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Police found bombs in banks in New York City, Chicago and San Francisco today hours after anonymous warnings to news media that bombs had been planted in nine banks as part of a plot to free "political prisoners."

At the Bank of America in San Francisco, a spokesman said an explosion occurred there last September in the safe-deposit box listed in the warnings. The spokesman described damage as minor, adding there were no injuries.

San Francisco police said electrically timed explosive devices found today in safe-deposit boxes at Crocker Citizens National Bank and Wells Fargo Bank matched descriptions of bombs located and deactivated in the two other cities.

Bombs were found and deactivated in safe-deposit boxes at three banks in lower Manhattan—branches of the Marine Midland Trust Co., the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. and the First National City Bank. Another bomb was found in the First National Bank in Chicago.

"It would have made an effective bomb," said Police Capt. Kenneth O'Neill after the bomb was removed from the Marine Midland branch at 140 Broadway in New York.

Robert Daly, New York's deputy police commissioner, said all three bombs found in that city were active and would have killed anybody in the bank vaults.

Each was composed of a clock and battery recharger with a half-pound of smokeless black powder wrapped in a thin layer of styrofoam.

Handprinted special delivery letters received early today by media in Chicago and San Francisco said bombs had been planted in the banks.

An official of one of the banks, the Continental Illinois National Bank of Chicago, said no bomb was found there.

In New York, police were prevented from entering the vault of the Marine Midland branch until 8:30 a.m., when an automatic time clock allowed its massive door to be opened.

Man, Woman Hijack Big Airliner

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A Pacific Southwest Airlines jet was hijacked from Los Angeles to Tampa today by a shotgun-armed man and a woman with a baby who then took off for Havana in the same plane after waiting two hours for a craft capable of flying to Africa.

FBI agents said the pilot of the hijacked Boeing 727 indicated at takeoff he was headed for Havana.

The sudden, unannounced departure came after the plane was refueled for the second time while the FBI considered the hijackers' demands for a larger plane.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said the plane landed in Cuba at 1:01 p.m.

The PSA commuter plane was en route from San Francisco to Los Angeles when the hijackers took over. The hijackers allowed 134 passengers and a steward to leave the plane at Los Angeles then ordered the pilot and nine other PSA employees to accompany them to Florida.

Paul MacAllister, assistant director of the Hillsborough County Aviation Authority in Tampa, said at the time the request was made for a plane to fly to Africa there were no aircraft in the airport that could make the flight.

All flight operations were shut down at the airport and police set up roadblocks to keep arriving passengers away from the airport.

The red, white and silver 727 was taking on 9,000 gallons of fuel from two fuel trucks, MacAllister said, when the request came for a larger plane to take the hijackers to Africa.

FBI agents kept airport personnel inside the terminal after the hijackers radioed there was to be "nobody in sight" when the jet touched down. Flights destined for Tampa were diverted to Miami and other area airports.

A jeep trailing a 12-foot ladder carried to the plane aeronaughtical charts of the U.S. Eastern Seaboard as the hijackers had requested.

FBI agents showed the jeep driver and drivers of the fuel trucks a number of wanted posters, but there was no immediate word as to the hijackers' identities.

Woman Shot to Death at Home Here

Jettie Marie Johnson, 38, died at her home at 108 North Washington Street about 12:15 a.m. Friday of a gunshot wound from a 22 cal. pistol.

Sheriff Henry Sinyard said the wound "appeared to be self-inflicted." However, the body was taken to Little Rock for an autopsy. The woman was shot in the chest.

The incident occurred in a bedroom. Her husband, Harold Johnson, notified a neighbor who called police. They were alone in the house.

Sheriff Sinyard said that nobody is being held but the investigation is still open pending results of the autopsy. Arrangements will be announced.

New Court Members

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist took their seats today on the Supreme Court in the first double swearing-in ceremony in 60 years.

A packed courtroom to which all but invited guests were barred watched Powell, an aristocratic Virginia lawyer, and then Rehnquist, a young Goldwater conservative, take oaths administered by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

They took their places at the "freshmen" ends of the bench. Burger concluded the 10-minute ceremony with brief words of welcome to his fellow Nixon administration appointees. He said: "We look forward to many years of work with you in our common cause."

This was the first time in memory that the general public was barred from an open session of the Supreme Court. A spokesman suggested the reason was the large number of guests.

The succession of Powell and Rehnquist to the seats once held by the late Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan brings the court up to full numerical strength of nine for the first time since the summer.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell introduced Powell and Rehnquist and presented framed letters of commission from President Nixon. They were read aloud by E. Robert Seaver, the court clerk.

No other court business was conducted at the session.

Afterward, the two new men joined their seven colleagues at the regular Friday closed conference.

The two new members cannot vote as the justices reach decisions on cases already heard

Unemployment in U.S. Near Record

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment edged up to 6.1 per cent last month, just below a nine-year high reached a year earlier, the government said today.

At the same time, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the average rate of unemployment for all of last year was 5.9 per cent, up from 4.9 per cent in 1970 and 3.5 per cent in 1969.

Otherwise most job statistics for December were either unchanged or slightly worse when compared with the month before.

The 6.1 per cent over-all jobless rate was up slightly from November's 6.0 per cent and October's 5.8 per cent. It was just below the 6.2 per cent rate for December 1970, when the jobless figure peaked at a nine-year high.

The jobless rate for non-whites jumped sharply from 9.3 per cent in November to 10.3 per cent last month. At the same time the rate for whites fell from 5.7 per cent in November to 5.4 per cent last month.

There was no change in the rate for adult men, at 4.4 per cent or for adult women at 5.8 per cent, but the rate for teenagers of both sexes edged up from 17.0 per cent in November to 17.5 per cent in December.

The nation's total civilian work force, which showed a sharp gain in November, was little changed in December.

In real numbers the total force tumbled from 65.0 million in November to 64.9 million in December. Adjusted for seasonal variations, the government figured the civilian work force at 65.2 million in November and 65.3 million in December.

The total number of persons holding jobs also was little changed, at 80.2 million in real numbers and 80.1 million seasonally adjusted.

The number of job seekers was 4.7 million in actual numbers, or 5.2 million seasonally adjusted.

For all of last year, the number of unemployed persons averaged 5.0 million, up 900,000 from 1970.

Debt Ceiling Rise Is Inevitable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials say the Nixon administration will be forced in the next few weeks to ask Congress to again raise the national debt ceiling by a near-record amount.

Treasury aides said Thursday the current $430-billion ceiling is expected to be exceeded by March 1 unless Congress, as it usually does each year, agrees to raise it.

Last year Congress boosted the debt limit by a record $35 billion, trimming only $5 billion from the government's request. Officials indicated the new request could come close to that increase.

The 1972 fiscal year deficit currently is estimated at $28 billion, largest since World War II.

Treasury officials said the increase requested will depend on the size of the deficit projected for fiscal 1973. That figure will be disclosed in a few weeks when the new budget goes to Congress.

As of Dec. 30, the national debt subject to the limitation was at $426 billion and still climbing. A fall in government revenues, new expenditure programs and additional tax relief granted by Congress are contributing to the deficit, officials said.

Normally the government tries to raise the debt ceiling enough to pay for government operations through June 30—the end of the fiscal year—and still have enough money left over for emergencies. But the big deficit for 1972 means the government has only $4 billion left on its debt limit and nearly six months of this fiscal year to finance.

In a related matter, President Nixon's chief budget officer said Thursday the fiscal year 1973 budget will not have a request for a value-added tax.

George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said the 1973 budget will be balanced on a "full employment" basis. This means spending will not exceed revenues that would be expected if the economy were operating at a full-employment rate of production.

A value-added tax, described by some as a national sales tax, is a levy placed on goods and services at each level of production and distribution.

Motel Robbery in Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Three armed men robbed the Coachmen's Inn and its guests shortly before midnight Thursday night.

Motel officials said the men reportedly took between $5,000 and $10,000 from the motel safe alone, before robbing several of the motel's guests. One man told police that he had been robbed of about $1,000 he was carrying.

Police said they have two Oklahoma men in custody and will charge them with armed robbery later this morning.

Police identified the two men being held as Robert Lawler, 39, who had escaped Dec. 21 from the McAlester, Okla., state prison and Donald Friend, 36, of Muskogee, Okla.

Police are still searching for a third man, whom they say they possibly wounded when they fired at him as he fled down an alley.

H. G. Davis, manager of the motel, said the men forced the night clerk to his office where they and 17 guests and employees, who were rounded up in the vicinity of the lobby, were held hostage.

The night clerk, Wilson Day, told police that the men asked how many of the rooms were occupied and Day said he told them the motel was full.

The men then began going from room to room robbing the guests, police said. Police said they had robbed about 10 rooms before one of the victims managed to get to a telephone to summon police.

A spokesman for the police department said this morning that about $5,000 had been recovered.

Bomb Threat at L.R. Airport

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — About 800 persons, including Gov. Dale Bumpers, Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and other dignitaries, were evacuated from the new Little Rock Municipal Airport terminal building Thursday night when an unidentified caller telephoned the Arkansas Gazette and said a bomb had been planted at the airport building.

The Little Rock Chamber of Commerce was having its annual banquet at the new terminal building when the bomb threat was received.

Authorities said the call was received by the Gazette about 8 p.m. Gazette news editor Carriek Patterson called police who notified the governor's security personnel.

Two Accidents Investigated

Two accidents were investigated by City Police yesterday, the first at Hazel & Second Streets involving autos driven by Thurman Lindsey Jr. and McDowell Turner. There was heavy damage to the Turner auto. City Officers Neal and McCulley charged Lindsey with failure to yield the right-of-way.

At Hazel and 4th Streets a pickup driven by H.R. Kidd and an auto driven by Mrs. Pearl Jones collided with very minor damage resulting. Officers Neal and McCulley investigated.

Close Military-Industry Relationship Is Scored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military's close relationship with the defense industry is underscored in a new Pentagon survey identifying high-ranking officers landing top jobs with key defense contractors.

The survey, compiled for Congress, identifies 983 officers above the rank of major and 108 high-level Pentagon civilian employees who moved into industry jobs in the three previous fiscal years. Also listed are 232 former industry executives who accepted jobs with the Defense Department during the same period.

Many Bridges in Nation Dangerous

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first step of a program to replace dangerous highway bridges, the federal government has found nearly one-sixth of the nation's bridges are "critically deficient."

The Federal Highway Administration, in a report to Congress today, said it already has approved replacement of 50 of the most-hazardous bridges in 49 states and Puerto Rico.

A spokesman said that, although 89,000 bridges are in the critical category, this means only that certain elements of the bridges are unsafe, not that whole structures are.

The report was compiled through surveys of states, which listed problem bridges among approximately 563,500 highway bridges across the country.

The report is the first made in compliance with the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970, which authorized bridge replacements.

Replacement of the first 50 hazardous bridges will cost the

Nixon May Enter in N. Hampshire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Amid reports President Nixon is on the verge of sanctioning his entry in the New Hampshire primary, the field has rounded out for the March 7 contest—the first test of voter sentiment in the 1972 presidential sweepstakes.

Sources at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., said Thursday Nixon was preparing to tell New Hampshire Gov. Wayne Dinnell that he approves of Dinnell's action earlier this week entering Nixon's name in the primary.

Although Nixon, in California for two days of summit meetings with Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, is widely expected to seek re-election, approval of the New Hampshire action would make it official.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren confirmed Nixon had received a letter from Dinnell, and other sources said a presidential reply possibly would be released today or Saturday.

The sources refused to go into detail on Nixon's campaign plans, saying only his reply to Dinnell would be a low-key message to New Hampshire voters that Nixon is a candidate.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, considered by many to be the front-runner for the Democratic nomination, and Rep. John Ashbrook just made the deadline for the March 7 race.

The Maine senator and the conservative congressman from Ohio submitted their nominating petitions on Thursday, the last filing day.

In Concord for the filing, Muskie immediately began campaigning among "my fellow New Englanders," casting himself as the favorite-son candidate but acknowledging the seriousness of the first test.

"If I were to lose New Hampshire, this would be a disaster," he said in a radio interview. "I don't expect I will, but I know I have to sell myself to the voters of New Hampshire. I can't take them for granted."

Ashbrook said his entry would give people a chance to demonstrate dissatisfaction with Nixon's philosophies. Ashbrook and his supporters claim Nixon has reneged on 1968 campaign promises to party conservatives.

Other Republicans in the New Hampshire race are Rep. Paul McCloskey of California, who is running on an antiwar platform, and comedian Pat Paulsen who also just beat the filing deadline Thursday.

Democratic entrants besides Muskie are Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota and Vance Hartke of Indiana, and Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty.

Low Pay Keeps Some Police on Welfare

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — In this town of 9,000, a policeman is likely to throw a drunk in jail overnight and wind up standing next to him in a welfare line the next morning.

Of the 13 patrolmen and three radio operators in the Malvern Police Department, four are receiving federal assistance and one has applied for food stamps.

There would be more, says Patrolman Bill Burnett, public information officer for the department, but their pride keeps them from applying for assistance.

"It's humiliating," Burnett said. "We like to feel like being a policeman, a cop, is a highly professional job."

On the average, the policemen take home $69 a week.

"We were promised a pay raise in May," Burnett said, but the raise did not materialize. Two successive pay hike promises did not show up on the patrolmen's checks.

Last Tuesday the Malvern City Council approved a budget for the coming year which did not include raises for the policemen, Burnett said.

Of the four receiving federal assistance, one officer with five children is living in a federal housing project in nearby Hot Springs and his children are receiving free lunches at school.

The other three officers are on food commodities program, Burnett said.

To supplement their income, all the policemen, except one, have part-time jobs. One policeman drives a taxi, another sings and plays the guitar in a nightclub, one sells real estate

San Quentin Prison Soon to Be Closed

By PAUL KERN LEE
Associated Press Writer

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — The warden of San Quentin Prison, the dour old fortress on San Francisco Bay soon to be closed, says he feels "a little nostalgic to see the old ship go down."

But Louis S. Nelson, the career penologist who has headed San Quentin since 1967, concedes the place is "infamous."

For residents of the surrounding area, Gov. Ronald Reagan's plans to wind up the long and checkered career of San Quentin within three years brought a sigh of relief.

In his statement of the State message to the California Legislature Thursday, Reagan said the convict population of the 121-year-old penitentiary would be reduced from its present 2,214 to 1,500 in the coming year.

It will be abandoned forever by the end of 1974, Reagan said.

The governor gave no specific reason, but the cluttered old prison has been the scene of recurrent violence throughout its history. A burst of bloodshed last Aug. 21 gave impetus to movements to shut it down.

In that episode, three guards and three prisoners died. The dead included the revolutionary black convict George Jackson.

A state Department of Corrections committee of inquiry recommended two months later that both San Quentin and Folsom Prison be closed as "not secure or safe."

The governor said new maximum security facilities would be planned, but Department of Corrections officials said expansion of existing prisons was probable, rather than a new facility.

"We are infamous," Nelson commented. "When you think of prisons in California you think of San Quentin."

"When you think of prisons' you think about San Quentin."

"I feel a little nostalgic to see the old ship go down."

He used the word "ship" advisedly, for that is how the prison began in 1851, as a rotting hulk that confined Gold Rush miscreants.

A total of 405 men and women have paid the supreme penalty for their crimes behind San Quentin's walls, 215 by hanging and 190 in a green-walled chamber on the ground floor after gas became the method of execution in 1938.

The chamber has stood vacant since 1967 while the courts consider the future of capital punishment, but 99 men remain on Death Row.

They include condemned slayers Sirhan B. Sirhan, the assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy; and Charles Manson, the hippie cult leader who masterminded the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

Winter Weather Is Short-Lived

The chill has gone out of the Arkansas' weather forecast.

The National Weather Service is predicting fair skies and warmer temperatures through the weekend, turning a bit cooler Monday and Tuesday.

The lows tonight will be in the upper 20s to upper 30s. The high Saturday will be in the low 50s to low 60s.

The forecast through Tuesday does not call for any rain.

The highs around the state Thursday ranged from 36 at Memphis to 45 at Little Rock and Fayetteville.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville, 22; Harrison, 34; Pine Bluff, 28; Texarkana, 28; El Dorado, 20; Memphis, 27; Little Rock, 28; Fort Smith, 20.

No precipitation was recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 this morning.

Loss of a 12th Plane Admitted

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today belatedly disclosed the loss of a 12th American plane last month in the air war over Laos and North Vietnam and announced a U.S. helicopter was shot down in South Vietnam's central highlands on Thursday.

A spokesman said an Air Force OV10 forward air control plane directing air strikes against the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos went down Christmas Eve, and the two crewmen are listed as missing. The loss was attributed to unknown causes.

The UH1 helicopter was shot down in the highlands during a supply mission to South Vietnamese troops 25 miles north of Kontum. Three Americans were wounded.

Fifteen minutes earlier, the U.S. Command said, an American gunship accidentally fired a rocket into a South Vietnamese position a mile away, killing one government soldier and wounding five. The command said the incident is under investigation.

It was the second such accidental attack in three days. On Tuesday, U.S. helicopters supporting South Vietnamese troops in the Mekong Delta killed one soldier and wounded seven.

Meanwhile, U.S. B52 bombers kept up their heavy attack against a North Vietnamese buildup which U.S. officials fear threatens an offensive during President Nixon's visit to China.

Thirty of the Stratofortresses dropped 900 tons of bombs on enemy supply routes, depots, troop concentrations and bunker complexes, informed sources reported.

Nearly half of the bombs were dropped in the southern half of the demilitarized zone near the Laotian border. The other strikes hit South Vietnam's central highlands along the northeastern border of Cambodia.

Censors Leave Dylan Wordless

By ERNESTINE GUGLIELMO

NOT SO BAD—Many stations are refusing to play Bob Dylan's song, "George Jackson." It's not because they consider it a too-controversial subject, but because of a "distasteful word" included in the song. None of the censors seems to realize what the song is about, only the bad word, which isn't really bad at all in context.

FRATERNITY MEN—What are college fraternity men doing since the days when their favorite pastime was pulling off pranks? Well, the guys at Phi Gamma Delta at Gettysburg College have taken to collecting 45-rpm records of the '50s. They consider them "collectors' items" and are spending their time listening to these oldies and having sing-along sessions. Anyone who has danced to "There's a Moon Out Tonight" or "Tears on My Pillow" will feel the first tugs of age when the term "collectors' item" is used for these songs.

YOUNG FILMMAKERS—Several of you have written asking how you can get to see the movies that won awards in the Teen-age Movies in Competition. So here's how you can get a print of them. Excerpts of 12 winning film productions are now available FREE for group showings. They feature the talents of filmmakers ages 12 through 19 who entered the annual Kodak Teen-age Movie Awards. Included are themes on ecology, the life and death of a pop singer, sex, satire on TV shows and some animated shorts. To reserve a print of Teen-age Movies in Competition for a group showing, write to Audio-Visual Distribution, Eastman Kodak Co., Dept. 306, 343 State St., Rochester, N.Y. 14650.

DON GETS GOLD—Don McLean was once called "The Hudson River Troubadour" when he carried the ecological message along the Hudson River on the sloop Clearwater. Don spent about three years performing with Pete Seeger on this project, but few had heard of him.

Who would have thought that Don McLean, written about in this very column back in April, would now be sought after by every publication, in demand for concerts and selling a million records?

But there he is. Don now has in his possession a gold record and gold album for his "American Pie" single and album. No great surprise to his steadfast fans. The next move should be to re-release his first album, "Tapestry," by which many people came to know him. And because of the enormous success of album No. Two, United Artists will probably do just that.

Don McLean has been a folk musician doing the small clubs and coffee houses for about eight years, so his sudden success isn't really sudden at all. But it's spreading like a flash fire.

Through his music, Don has tried to "tell people what I am." And, in turn, his audience has told him what he is. A sensitive poet who can convey his message musically. For his efforts, he gets a gold record, but that's only the beginning.

Helen Bottel

Helen Help Us!

NOT FIT TO BE A FATHER

Dear Helen:

I have been married for three years and have an 18-month-old daughter. The problem centers around my husband who gets very drunk several times a week. On these occasions he slaps me around, as he does even at times when he hasn't been drinking. He has a vile temper and the language he uses is foul, to say the least.

But I could stand all this if he were decent to the baby. He never pays any attention to her except to scream at her and, when she cries, he hits her. Then, on the few occasions when we go visiting or our relatives come to see us, he expects her to act like a sweet, loving daughter. When she won't go to him and screams if he picks her up, he waits till we're alone, then beats her for it. If I try to stop him, we both get bruises. She was in the hospital once. I couldn't bear to let anyone know my husband had hurt her, so we said that she fell out of her crib.

Our religion doesn't allow for divorce. What can I do? — AFRAID

Dear Afraid:
The situation which you and your child are facing, in relation to your husband's drunken, savage temper, is so dangerous that I think it imperative that you have specialist guidance in finding a solution.

Even the strictest religion would not force you to live with a man who endangers your child's life. Divorce may be prohibited, but there is no law that says you must remain together.

I think the first step you should take out of this dilemma is to have a talk with your pastor. Put all the facts on the table and I'm sure that he can put you in touch with suitable advisers—in the psychiatric, medical or family case work fields of service.

Your husband is a sick man. And, if you decide to live apart from him, make your departure as peaceable as possible—on terms to which he could adjust without feeling bested—to avoid irrational fury, which could endanger yourself and your child. Here again, your pastor may be of help. —H.

Is there any way we can get a law passed to make people who let their animals roam have them neutered? I help out at the animal shelter. Sometimes three or four hundred cats are brought in during a week. They range all the way from baby kittens to very pregnant females, and we can't find homes for most of them, so they must be destroyed. How much better it would be if people who didn't want to raise animals saw to it their animals wouldn't add to the overpopulation.

The excuse is usually that having a pet "fixed" costs too much.

What can be done? —ANIMAL LOVER

Dear A.L.:
I understand that several cities have helped solve the problem with an "animal birth control clinic" where pets are neutered either free of charge or for a minimum fee. Officials figure cost of the clinics is offset by reduced cost of operating pounds. Why don't you suggest it to your City Council? —H.

BORGE TOOK A CHANCE.
NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist-comedian Victor Borge says he's made close to $2 million in oil, real estate, farming and other business ventures.

"I've been terrifically lucky," he says. "About 10 years ago I performed at a theater, working for a 25 per cent interest in a Kentucky oil well still to be dug... instead of a flat fee."

"The well started producing right away. It's still going, and so I've made $300,000 from it."

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Public broadcasting's "Hollywood Television Theatre" took a giant, happy step backward Thursday night with a live performance of a pair of one act comedies by Anton Chekhov.

Rip Torn and his wife, Geraldine Page, starred in the two playlets, and they were a treat for drama lovers these days when about the only live broadcasts are sports, beauty contests and awards shows.

The noisy shouting matches by the Russian playwright may not have been to everyone's taste but they were done with infectious gusto and enthusiasm.

In the first, "A Marriage Proposal," Torn played a hypochondriac suitor arrived to ask the hand of the daughter of his neighbor. When the girl—Miss Page in a bright orange fright wig—arrived, she and her suitor became embroiled in a screaming fight over which family owned some meadowland. This resolved, another equally furious battle erupted over the relative excellence of two breeds of hunting dogs.

The second playlet, "The Bear," had Miss Page playing a widow still mourning and in black months after the death of a beloved husband—"He was unfair, cruel and unfaithful but I loved him." Into her determined retirement stormed a bachelor land-owner, demanding payment of an old debt. Once again there was fighting and yelling, and the widow ended up in the ruffian's arms of course.

The viewer was left wondering if the two plays were a couple of lesser efforts retrieved from the bottom of a trunk. Slight and silly as they were, everyone seemed to be having fun.

Earlier, CBS economically filled a temporary gap in its Thursday night schedule by pasting together bits from "My Three Sons," a sort of retrospective of its 12 seasons on the network. The result was an hour special that publicized the move of the veteran series to its new Thursday time slot, and at the same time filled a half hour gap, next week a new situation comedy series will be launched.

The flashbacks were tied together by a rather obvious device: Fred MacMurray as Steve Douglas was suffering from amnesia and his family was trying to shock his memory.

It worked pretty well for once, but it is hoped the idea will not catch on among series producers. It seems to be a tidy way to get more yardage out of programs which already have been rerun.

LADY MILKMAN

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (AP) — Beverly Himes likes people and the outdoors so what better job could she find than delivering milk for a dairy?

Mrs. Himes, 29, said she would stagnate if she was "put behind a desk and saw nothing but files." She drove a dry-cleaning firm's truck in Thunder Bay, Ont. for three years before returning here in 1969.

She says that for a married woman with two school-age children delivering milk is almost the perfect job.

Oakland Hurler Shot by Burglar

MACON, Ga. (AP) — "I was thinking I would never pitch again after the first shot. After the second shot I thought it was all over."

Those were the words of Oakland Athletics pitcher Johnny "Blue Moon" Odom, recounting the incident Thursday in which he was wounded by a would-be burglar.

The 26-year-old right-hander was shot in the neck and side, but doctors said his pitching career probably would not be affected.

Odom, a Macon resident, had been trying to question the man about an attempted burglary when the man shot him and fled. Police said they had launched an "intensive search" for the attacker.

A pitcher at Ballard-Hudson High School here in his youth, Odom was signed by the A's in 1964 on a $75,000 bonus contract. He pitched a no-hitter in 1970 and was 10-12 for the A's last season.

He described the events leading to the gunfire this way: Odom's wife came to the li-

Super Bowl Wife Spending Extra Money

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Julie Swift curled her bare feet under a maxi and studied sketches for her new kitchen.

Sinks, cabinets ... the works. "I'm spending our Super Bowl money," she chuckled. "After all, we've got $16,000 assured and there's another $7,500 'when-not-if'—we beat the Dallas Cowboys."

Julie's 23-year-old husband, Doug, plays outside linebacker for the Miami Dolphins. If Miami wins the Jan. 16 Super Bowl at New Orleans, Swift will collect more in playoff money than he makes in regular salary.

"We'll use some of it to visit friends at a ski lodge in Idaho," said the petite, blonde Julie. "But mostly we'll invest it. Real estate is a good deal, but sorta pins you down. Let's face it, Doug could be traded tomorrow. We'll probably stick to stocks and bonds."

In romps a huge animal: Ishmael, a 100-pound Weimaraner dog who shares the house with Doug, Julie and a cat named Ramon.

"Down, Ishie," orders Julie, who barely outweighs the super-permitt by five pounds. The dog trots to a corner of the room and almost seems to fade away, blending into the brown shag carpet.

"Doug and I began dating when we were seniors," says Julie, a native of Philadelphia. "I was at Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass., about 20 minutes from Amherst." They were married last March.

Swift, a 228-pounder, traveled the most unlikely of routes to National Football League stardom. He played at Amherst, where the notable games are academic. When Doug finished in 1970, the NFL never noticed and he wasn't drafted.

Montreal of the Canadian Football League agreed to give Swift a look. "Doug lasted less than a month," said Julie, "but football ability had nothing to do with the failure. The coach in Canada thought Doug was a hippie."

Dolphin Coach Don Shula explained. "They looked sorta funny at Swift, with his pink sunglasses and long hair. Perhaps we also looked at him out of the corner of our eye ... until we saw him start hitting people on the football field."

As Julie discussed per plans to attend Miami Law School, a red Olds Cutlass rumbled up outside bearing the linebacker-husband. Ishmael erupted with a bark that might even scare Dick Butkus.

"Doug has a way to quiet Ishmael down," revealed Julie. "He flings the dog around his neck—like a mink stole—and Ishie soon simmers down."

Doug says hello, then streaks for the patio to install a boxing speed bag. Being in Super Bowl VI isn't enough for Swift. He wants to improve his timing and stamina and be there for VII, VIII, IX et al.

quor store where he was working and said a house next to his mother's had been the target of an attempted burglary. Several people saw the young man who made the attempt and followed him.

"He passed by the package store where I was working and my wife ran in and told me the man had tried to rob our neighbor's house," Odom told them left the store in pursuit.

"I finally caught up with him and asked him to stop. I told him I wanted to ask him a few questions. He turned around and said, 'What for?' and pulled out the gun and started shooting."

The man fired three times from about 15 feet, wounding Odom in the neck and side and missing once.

The pitcher then fired back with a gun of his own, but said he apparently missed the fleeing man.

Odom said he was carrying the gun because "any time you follow a burglar they might have something to shoot at you with."

He said his attacker joined two other men and disappeared.

Mrs. Odom took her husband to a local hospital, and he entered under his own power.

Odom said he would be able to report on time for spring training next month.

"I'm real lucky," he said from his hospital bed. "I should be out in three days."

Marti Leads Campbell Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Big Fred Marti, the first-round leader in the $125,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament, has yet to win a major tournament in six years in the pro tour—but feels his time may be coming.

"You've just got to keep trying, keep playing, and get lucky," the big blond said after shooting a sterling six-under-par 65 for a one stroke lead in this kickoff event of the long 1972 pro tour.

The Texan led the field despite continued weakness from a bout with pneumonia that knocked him out of the last few tournaments of the 1971 season. He held a one-stroke margin over George Archer, Bob Smith, Hale Irwin, Curtis Strydom and young John Mahaffey, a 23-year-old tour rookie and former national collegiate champion.

George Boutell was alone at 67, with four others tied at 68 in the bright warm sunshine that bathed the 6,823-yard, par 71 Rancho Park Golf Course. They are Gene Littler, Tom Weiskopf, Jim Wiechers and Larry Wood.

Arnold Palmer had a 69, Billy Casper took a 71 and Lee Trevino struggled home with a fat 74, far back in the field and in danger of missing the cut for

Coach Thinks Bruins Could Be Overpowered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How do you beat UCLA?

The prescription comes from none other than Bruins Coach John Wooden.

"We could be overpowered," he says. "Our forwards, at 6-5 and 6-6 and 170-180 pounds, are smaller and lighter than most forwards we'll face in the conference. We're more apt to suffer in a rough game, especially if officiating gets loose and most likely on the road."

But eight opponents have been unable to find the formula thus far. As the Bruins open their conference season at Oregon State tonight, they are top-ranked nationally, leading the nation in scoring, and lopsided favorites to win the Pacific-8 once again and enter the NCAA playoffs in pursuit of their sixth straight national title.

This is Wooden's kind of team—quick, agile, pressing, fast-breaking, disciplined, deep. There is no Low Alcindor or Sidney Wicks to pass the ball to and then get out of the way. But there is plenty of talent to be molded by the decade's most successful college basketball coach, and Wooden says, "I'm enjoying it very much."

It takes much longer for the coach to describe his team's strength than its weaknesses.

"We have good balance, speed, quickness, and the good kind of man," he says. "We have a blend of good outside shooting and the good inside game. Our strength is in running and pressing, but I think we can play most any type of game and have a good chance."

Thundering Kerd Simply Out-Gunned

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's not often that any basketball team outruns—or out-guns—Marshall's Thundering Herd, but it happened Thursday night.

Morehead State, hitting 68.4 per cent of its shots from the field in the first half, raced to a 61-53 lead at intermission and went on to score a 103-90 upset victory over the 13th-ranked Thundering Herd—at Marshall, no less.

Morehead Coach Bill Harrell used a starting line-up of five sophomores, and one of them, forward Eugene Lyons, responded by scoring a career-high 27 points, 25 of them in the first half explosion.

There was an element of de-value to the game, and it wasn't a pleasant one for Marshall fans.

The last time Marshall was ranked in the top 20 was during the 1955-56 season, when the Thundering Herd briefly held the No. 18 spot. The following week they were knocked off by Morehead State, and the school had not held a national ranking again until this season.

Now it's happened again.

After Morehead took an early 24-14 lead, Marshall caught up and passed the Eagles at 34-33. A jumper by Lyons put Morehead on top 46-45 and the Eagles stayed on top till Randy Noll put Marshall ahead 60-79 with a foul shot with 7:08 remaining.

But Morehead responded to the challenge, outscoring Marshall 19-4 for a 90-87 lead and the game.

Lyons' running-mate at forward, Len Coulter, scored 26 for Morehead and guard Bill Dotson added 20. For Marshall, guard Mike D'Antoni netted 23, center Russell Lee tallied 22 and forward Randy Noll scored 21 points and pulled down a game-high 11 rebounds.

No. 15 Southwestern Louisiana, 7-1, avenged its only loss of the season by whipping Eastern Kentucky 87-80. The Bulldogs had dropped a 108-99 decision at Eastern Kentucky Dec. 1.

In other major games, defending Missouri Valley champion Drake opened its conference schedule with a 61-46 victory over Wichita State; Louisiana State ended a six-game losing streak by tripping Georgetown, D.C. 90-71, and Weber State launched the defense of its Big Sky Conference crown by trouncing Gonzaga 84-48.

Substitutes filling in now along with some cold shooting, the Kittycats first passed the time and made sure Nashville didn't score the points they needed to comeback and win.

East led Hope with 21 points while Griffin hit the other 19. The starting defensive trio of Janie York, Melissa Reese, and Bonnie Roy did a fine job in not allowing Nashville a point in over a quarter and holding the enemy at half the rest of the way. Also doing a fine job were Jeannie Kramer and Clark.

During the second game, the B-Bruins saw Nashville double the score and then went to work, cut the score down and in a last quarter see-saw of the score, Hope coming out on top, 30-28. Nashville took the first shot at putting points on the board, but when they missed the Bruins marched on down to a jumpshot by John Henry and a 9-0 lead. Two free throws, one each by Henry and Mike Harris, kept the Hope five ahead for awhile, but cold shooting by both squads left the score knotted, 4-4, at the quarters end.

Halfway into the second quarter, Hope took a timeout for an injured player, but after they had grabbed an earlier, 6-5, lead, hit a cold spell and allowed the Scrappettes to post a 12-4, halftime margin.

With the second half getting underway, the Bruins came out ready to win, and as the third quarter went along, Hope crept back up and narrowed the score. And when the final period started, they moved.

With the shooting of Gary Rhodes, Shelton Cole, and John Henry, Hope knotted the score up, and after a time out with 1:40 left, and a 28-27, lead the B-Bruins proceeded to keep the lead. Crucial free throws by Harris and Ricky Brown gave the Bruins their last two points, enough for the win.

Rhodes was the leading scorer with nine points, followed by Henry with seven, Harris and Cole with four each, and Martin getting three.

Tonight the Hope Senior and Junior Boys host the Fairview Cardinals in Jones Field with the first game getting underway at 6:30 p.m. Fairview has one of the better teams in the district.

Hope Kittycats, B Boys Post Victories

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer
Last night in Jones Field House the Hope Kittycats belted the Nashville Juniors, 40-34, and the B-Bruins played some fine comeback ball to over take Nashville, 30-28, in a wild finish.

In the first game, Gail East and Pogo Griffin combined on some quick scoring to move the Kittycats out to an 11-0 margin with 1:39 left in the period, and after moving into the second quarter with a 13-0 cushion, East hit two more for a 15-0 lead.

With 5:21 to go in the first half, Nashville finally put a point on the board with Janet Ellis hitting the second of two free throw attempts.

However, it was to be another two minutes before the Kittycats allowed another score and after increasing the lead steadily the Hope Juniors made it look very simple as they trotted to the dressing room at half time with an overwhelming 26-3, cushion.

As the second half proceeded to get underway, Hope stretched the lead to 29 points, but a cold streak for the rest of the quarter enabled the Scrappettes to gain back nine points and trail, 34-14, with only one stanza left.

Substitutes filling in now along with some cold shooting, the Kittycats first passed the time and made sure Nashville didn't score the points they needed to comeback and win.

Hope Girls Clobber Nashville

By BILL MOORE

Nashville's Scrappettes were undefeated. Were, but not anymore!

Moving into the final period, the Hope Ladycats (8-6) picked up momentum, while Nashville (10-1) seemingly fell apart, to clobber the previous unbeaten, 56-44, for their second big win in a row.

looked as if the Ladycats were headed for trouble early as the Scrappettes took off on a 5-0 lead, before Dee Singleton hit a free throw with 5:29 left to put Hope on the board, and then Janet McCain hitting both ends of a foul chance to pull Hope within two, 5-3.

Using a free throw and a field goal by Nancy Ellis, Nashville proceeded to an 8-3 margin, but from thereon to the remainder of the period, Hope kept pace on the shooting efficiency of Singleton and McCain, so that when the second quarter got under way the Ladycats trailed 18-12.

Taking the tipoff, Hope drove to Singleton's two point jumpshot and McCain flying layup to pull up on the score. Gradually narrowing the gap, the Ladycats found they only trailed by a single point 25-24, at halftime, after Gigi Gladney flipped in a close one with 14 seconds left.

On the very outset of the second half of play, Hope took the lead for the first time on McCain's jumpshot and now both offensive squads began trading gloves to throw punches, while the American seemed intent on maintaining a peaceful co-existence.

When it was settled, both players were tagged with minor penalties, but Mishakov also was assessed a 10-minute match misconduct, which, under international rules, calls for his team to skate short-handed for the full span of the penalty.

Tarasov did not understand the ruling. It took a brief conference with much shrugging between the coach, his interpreter and the referee before things were straightened out. After the game, the Russian coach still was puzzled.

"Tell me something," Tarasov said. "I did not understand. The referees were wrong and the police did nothing about."

That's the way it goes in the United States sometimes, Anatoli.

Report on Weather in This Area During 1971

Calendar Year 1971
By: CECIL M. BITTLE
The year 1971 marks a century (100 yrs.) that weather records have been kept at or near the town of Hope starting back in 1871. Weather record keeping was started in the Hope area three years before Hope was incorporated into a town.
Have been unable to trace who kept the records before the turn of the century. It is my understanding that Mr. N.P. O'Neal, Hope Brick Works kept the records many years before the establishment of the Southwest Branch Experiment Station in 1923. Some years after the Station was established it became the official observer for the Weather Bureau.
Did you know there are 106 reporting stations in the state? The observers, mostly individuals not connected to any institution or organization and for the most part serve without compensation, just to be helpful to humanity. Seldom are they recognized by the public for this wonderful service. Many have been reporting most of their lifetime and I have seen reports of 30 or more years of reporting.

Perhaps it will be of interest to note this Station's index as follows:
Location: 3 Miles NE Hope, Arkansas
County: Hempstead
Drainage: Ouachita
Latitude: 33 Degree 43 minutes
Longitude: 93 degree 33 minutes
Elevation: 375 feet

Precipitation in 1971 was unusual with it being very dry during the first half of the year. From January 1 through June the records indicate a total of 16.1 inches compared to normal of 29.2 or 13.1 inches below normal or 45% of normal.

Rainfall began to catch up rather fast July and August with a total of 14.83 inches for the two months where normal is only 7.35. Even though July, August, October and December were above normal the year ended with 4.39 inches below normal.

Turning to this year 1971 it closed with 1° below normal. Daily normals are arrived at by averaging the high and low for the past 24 hour period. Longtime normal takes into account the average for some 30, or so, years.

March, May and August were considerably below normal of around 4°. Rainfall, perhaps did account for the low temperature in August.

July was below normal by 2.3°, however it gave us our hottest day of 101°. December was an odd month, almost as warm as November, it ended with 4.3° above normal with only 3 days that the temperature dropped to 32°. Actually, November had more days of 32° or below (8) than December. The lowest temperature recorded this fall and winter was 28° on November 25th. Our first temperature this fall of 32° occurred November 1st.

By TOM TIEDE

ALICE SPRINGS, N.T., Australia—(NEA)—For longer than man has recorded, for longer than he can even guess with certainty, the Australian outback has been one of the world's least lovely places.

Dry as death, hot as hell, crawling with creatures from another time, the outback "bush" covers an area two-thirds the size of the United States and assaults the senses with its sterility and scrub.

Some natives here say it began as God's garbage dump. Early explorers were so disgusted with the land they didn't even record its discovery until 1770. The first settlers were so numbed by the desolation they attached names like "Mt. Hopeless" to the features.

Even today the land remains, at best, menacing. Airplanes fly over, telephone poles crisscross the flats, there are some few business attractions, in fact. Yet the land is reluctant to yield.

Most Australians avoid it, live as far from it as possible, and so continue to leave most of their continent to "a few dim blokes what enjoy spending their days chasing off the scorpions and flies."

Like aborigines.

Like cattle ranchers.

Or, like me.

I discovered the rigors of the outback the hard way, the scary way, recently. I got stuck dead on in the middle of it.

It happened south of this town, near the border of the Northern Territories (one of eight Australian states and territories). I was driving toward an isolated cattle station and, in retrospect, was using more cheek than wit.

No one should push out into bush country with so little knowledge of the terrain and circumstances.

My problem was the road. It was "off the bitumen" (blacktop), as they say here, which means it resembled a tank training route at Ft. Benning, Ga. I soon discovered that my rental sedan was inadequate to either scale the road boulders or float the drifting dust.

I did fairly well for a few hours. I selected a manageable speed (30 m.p.h.), got the hang of the disastrous curves, and even kept the axle together over the foot-

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Virginia Squires Coach Al Bianchi felt Fatty Taylor wasn't earning his pay against the Pittsburgh Condors so he stuck the backcourt defensive specialist on the bench for almost one quarter.

Then Taylor went back in and earned his salary ... and then some.

"We felt we could go out there and relax, play anyway and beat them," Taylor said after the Squires overcame a first-half deficit for a 137-130 American Basketball Association victory over Pittsburgh Thursday night.

Virginia trailed by 15 points early in the contest against a team they had defeated six times in six meetings this season.

Bianchi was so miffed he benched all his starters. With three minutes to go in the first half and the Condors on top by 13 points, Taylor re-entered the game, made a steal and pumped in seven quick points to give Virginia a 66-65 halftime edge.

In Thursday's other ABA game, the Dallas Chaparrals nipped the Memphis Pros 104-103.

"I was embarrassed by the way I played and I couldn't wait to go back there and show I could get the job done," Taylor said. Charley Scott then added 15 of his 28 points in the third stanza and Pittsburgh never threatened again despite Bob Verga's 43 points.

Steve Jones hit two free throws with 39 seconds left as Dallas survived a late rally by Memphis as the Pros overcame an 89-78 disadvantage and tied the game 96-all with 2:26 left.

Donnie Freeman of the Chaps paced all scorers with 25 points and teammate Rich Jones added 23.

WIGS THAT STICK

minutes' time they were up my trouser legs and down my shirt collar. They didn't bite. They didn't sting. But very soon I realized the validity of the outback claim that if the heat doesn't get one, and there is water to drink, the flies can still kill by torment.

I changed the tire as quickly as possible. Actually choking on flies that rushed into my mouth. And in a half-hour was ready to go.

But. More trouble. When I shifted into gear, the car didn't move. The tires spun furiously in the dust, getting no traction.

I rocked the vehicle.

Burned the accelerator.

But I could get no movement.

I decided further spinning was useless. The dust was so fine it offered no resistance. And in trying to lick it I only sank deeper.

So I stopped there, and thought, in the 95-degree heat, and the flies crawling in my hair, and the map showing the nearest cattle station 20 miles away. I sat, or paced, for an hour.

Through sundown and into night. Two hours. Three. Hoping that, as I'd been told in town, there were "one or two cars on the road every day."

Every day? Or every week? About the time I began to seriously wonder, I thought, Eureka, of my salvation. I quickly let the air out of my rear tires. And it worked. The extra rubber surface grabbed the dust and I was able to goad the automobile back onto the highway.

It took me about an hour to reach a cattle station, an airpump, and a chuckling old Aussie who said: "Flies? Oh, they don't mean no harm. You see, there's so little life out here that when somebody comes along they just naturally jump on him for the ride."

THOUGHTS
"Let him take his rod away from me, and let not dread of him terrify me.
Then I would speak without fear of him, for I am not so in myself."—Job 9:34, 35.
When you're afraid, keep your mind on what you have to do. And if you have been thoroughly prepared, you will not be afraid.—Dale Carnegie.
But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control;
against such there is no law.
—Galatians 5:22, 23.
Today we are afraid of single words like goodness and mercy and kindness. We don't believe in the good old words because we don't believe in the good old values any more. And this is why the world is so sick.—Lin
Yutang, Chinese philosopher.

HIS MEMOIR

His day of birth—the first day of the rest of his life. The first day of his biography, his memoir. And what kind of story will he be able to write when he is old and the flame of life has become a dying ember? Will he tell of happiness or grief, of success or failure? Will he bear witness to love or hatred, to war or peace? Will he mention faith or futility?

His memoir depends on his life and his life depends on you. What will you teach him? How will you influence him? He's your child. He's your responsibility. Start him out right by starting him out with the Book of Life. Proverbs 22:6 says, "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

A good start insures a good finish, and what better memoir could he have than one that says, "It was good."

Trade Deficit Means U.S. Losing Competitive Edge

(Editor's note: Trade deficits are a rare occurrence in U.S. history, but there's no doubt now that the United States ran up a big one last year. The following story shows how it happened.)

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 1971 trade deficit, its first in 78 years, is a complex story of strikes and threatened strikes, of a country losing its competitive edge, and of Americans buying more imported goods than ever.

It is written in Census Bureau statistics showing rising imports of iron and steel, automobiles, petroleum and coal, television sets and a wide variety of consumer goods.

Growing imports combined with declining exports add up to a trade deficit. Simply stated, it means American consumers bought more foreign goods than American businesses sold in other countries.

The government is busy totaling up the year's trade deficit. It could approach $2 billion. That would be a staggering turnaround from 1970 when the nation had a $2.6-billion trade surplus.

Trade analysts and economists are also busy figuring out what happened. There is little disagreement on the principal reasons:

The world's major economies were out of kilter in 1971. The United States began expansive policies and started a recovery, making it a good market for imports. The economies of Japan and Western Europe suffered slowdowns, making them bad markets for U.S. exports.

With this condition lowering U.S. resistance, Americans began to see clearly the underlying ailment: The economies of Japan and Western Europe had bounced back from World War II and were competing effectively with the United States.

Strikes and the threat of strikes might have been weathered in any other year. The threat of a steel strike in the first part of the year tended to step up steel imports. A coal strike also increased imports. Then the dock strikes distorted the picture.

Trade analysts in the Commerce Department said the dock strike tended to hurt exports worst, although no one could offer any proof on how much.

The combination of circumstances, however, was powerful. According to Census figures for the first 11 months of 1971, foreign imports increased $4.9 billion over the same period in 1970 while exports climbed by only $600 million. In terms of percentages, imports advanced by 13.5 per cent and exports by only 5 per cent.

Herbert H. Glantz, a trade analyst in the Commerce Department, provided this picture of 1971 through November:

—Imports from Canada rose $1.6 billion, up 15 per cent from 1970. From Western Europe, they increased by $1.4 billion, or 14 per cent, and from Japan, they were up by $1.1 billion, or 20 per cent.

—Exports to Canada provided the only bright spot, going up by $1.1 billion or 13 per cent over a year. But goods shipped to Western Europe fell by $379 million, or 4 per cent, and to Japan by $570 million, or 14 per cent.

President Nixon saw what was happening at midyear and, to prevent a balance-of-payments disaster, suspended the convertibility of the dollar into gold and imposed a 10-per-cent import surcharge. The surcharge was removed in late December when a new monetary settlement was reached by the non-Communist world's major powers.

The trade figures disclose the surcharge had little apparent effect in reducing the flow of imports, although it did prove an effective bargaining stick in winning the monetary agreement.

Through November, U.S. businesses had exported $39.5 billion in goods. Imports totaled $41.3 billion. For all of 1970, exports totaled $42.6 billion and imports $40 billion.

Here's the way it breaks down by major economies: Canada—U.S. business shipped $9.252 billion to Canada in the first 11 months of 1971. Canada imported $11.665 billion into the United States.

Western Europe, including the Common Market—U.S. exports through November were $12.5 billion; imports to United States totaled $11.5 billion.

Japan—Imports from Japan totaled $6.5 billion through November, compared with $3.6 billion in U.S. exports to that country.

By products, the export-import picture mirrored the difference between the economies of the world, the U.S. recovery and the European-Japanese slowdowns.

For example, computer sales overseas had been strong in 1970. In 1971, they declined 4 per cent. Electric components sales dropped by 12 per cent. The same was true of iron and steel, an area in which exports had gone up by 26 per cent in 1970.

In 1971, exports of iron and steel tailed off by 39 per cent. Trade analysts blamed it on stockpiling by U.S. companies in anticipation of a strike which never came.

Coal exports, a 62-per-cent gainer in 1970, fell off by 4 per cent in 1971. Aluminum exports were also down.

Anticipated rises in exports of other goods were less than expected.

Although U.S. business took it on the chin from imports, for consumers it was a good year for buying foreign-made products.

Consumer goods accounted for biggest part of the import gain, going up by 22 per cent over 1970.

Industrial supplies accounted for another 12-per-cent, or $1.7 billion, increase in imports. Steel imports were up by $668 million, petroleum by $440 million, and lumber by $211 million.

Kennedy Gets Highest Rating

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy has received the highest rating of the Americans for Democratic Action of all the congressional figures who have announced or been mentioned as presidential candidates.

The Massachusetts Democrat received a rating of 100 per cent Tuesday from the liberal organization which normally backs Democrats.

The ADA also gave high marks to Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, 96 per cent; Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, 89, and Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, 85. All are Democrats.

The lowest rating went to Republican Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio, who is challenging President Nixon on grounds Nixon has not responded to GOP conservatives. Ashbrook was rated at 8 per cent.

The percentages indicate the portion of the time the congressional votes agreed with ADA's position.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset Sees Special Session Probably in February

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Speaker Ray S. Smith Jr. of the Arkansas House is more and more inclined to believe that there will be a special session of the legislature, probably no later than February.

Smith said Thursday he had received no word from Gov. Dale Bumpers, but that the public statements of Bumpers and others in the administration indicate there probably will be a special session.

Bumpers has said he still has reached no decision on whether to summon the legislators to Little Rock, but has said his staff and state agencies are making all the preparations necessary in case there is one.

Smith, a Hot Springs lawyer, said that late this month or February would be a likely time for a special session, if for no reason other than this is the time of year for the legislature to meet in biennial regular session.

"It's also better for those in the farming business—we've got quite a number of them in the House," Smith said.

"If we have to have a special session, we ought to have it, get it over with and end the speculation," he said.

He said that he had asked Bumpers to give two weeks' advance notice to allow time to obtain personnel to staff the House during the session.

One of the items that Bumpers could include in the call for a special session would be legislation to clear up procedures for selecting delegates to the Democratic National Convention this year. Charles T. Bernard of Earle, the Republican state chairman, has said it appears that Bumpers plans a "partial" session for the purpose of clarifying the delegate selection rules.

But Smith said this was an area of legitimate public concern that should be considered by the legislature if new delegate selection law is required. Smith also said he anticipated that a special session would be asked to consider legislation that would permit the state to take advantage of additional federal funds that can be obtained by the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services for its various programs.

He said he hoped that Bumpers would include a bill that would permit the state to avail itself of possible higher federal funding for sewage treatment and water pollution control. Legislation is pending in Congress to provide the money contingent on a state matching basis.

Smith also said he was inclined for the possible special session to provide the basis for testing the legality of a special session proposing a constitutional amendment. He said he would ask the governor to consider the inclusion of a constitutional amendment — Smith had no specific proposal in mind — in order to provide a test case. There are arguments on both sides of the legal question.

Impeachment in Chile

By ISAAC A. LEVI
Associated Press Writer
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile's lower house voted 80 to 59 Thursday night to impeach the No. 2 man in the Chilean government, but President Salvador Allende urged his Marxist supporters to keep the peace.

The vote in the House of Deputies automatically suspended Interior Minister Jose Toha from the Cabinet until the Senate—sitting as a jury—finds him guilty or innocent of charges that he permitted illegal armed groups to operate and violate the right of peaceful protest. The interior minister is first in line of presidential succession.

"The grounds on which the House impeached Toha were illegal," Allende angrily told 1,500 of his supporters who massed before the presidential mansion after midnight. "If they overthrow him as minister, I'll see to it that tomorrow he is appointed to another cabinet post."

But Allende, facing what may be the gravest crisis since taking office 14 months ago, urged his supporters to remain within the law.

The Christian Democratic party, the National party and the Radicals—which together make up strong majorities in the House and Senate—accused Toha, 48 and a Socialist like Allende, of violating the constitution by his actions as chief of the nation's police forces.

Testimony Thursday before the House said he tolerated such allegedly illegal armed groups as Allende's Cut-in-trained bodyguard and the Socialist and Communist party youth brigades. Opposition deputies also testified Toha permitted police to break up the march last month by 5,000 women protesting food shortages.

The debate lasted 13 hours while 3,000 leftists marched around the Congress building. There was no violence.

Resolutions Mean You Give Up Bad Habits

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The trouble with making New Year resolutions is that they generally only involve giving up bad habits.

They don't say what a fellow should do with the time he saves after he gives up a bad habit. He needs also to make a resolution to replace the bad habit with a good habit. For example, if he resolves to give up drinking or thinking, he should also resolve to spend more time growing begonias or singing in his church's choir.

As a matter of fact, most people who make New Year resolutions are altogether too stern about it. They want redemption too quickly. They get downcast and discouraged if they don't keep all their good resolutions. Then they relapse into their old ways.

The way to solve this is to make some resolutions you can keep and some resolutions you can break.

Here is a mixed bag of resolutions for 1972 that should leave a fellow feeling fairly contented with himself by the dawn of 1973:

Quit smoking gradually by throwing away one cigarette from every pack he buys.

Cut down on his drinking by leaving not one but two drops in the bottom of each Martini he sips.

Hang from the chandelier only on Wednesdays and national holidays.

Don't walk on the ceiling any time except on St. Crispin's Day.

Don't walk on water at all. Refrain from storming Ft. Knox with a toy gun.

Read at least one new poem a month.

Pat no more than one new girl in the stenographic pool on her what-you-may-call-it each fortnight.

Instead of telling your troubles to your favorite bartender all the time, ask him now and then what gives him ulcers.

Surprise your boss occasionally by asking him not what he can do for you but what you can do more for him.

Admire at least one sunrise and one sunset during the year. Blow your gasket over the woes of life in private, not in public.

Promise never to give more free advice than you accept. Pray more often in your swivel chair than you do in church.

Remember that if you aren't responsible for making this world, you are at least partly to blame for the plight it's in.

When autumn comes, plar-migan and some other species of grouse grow appendages on the toes which act as snowshoes in winter.
